

DEAR CONGRESS,

We keep hearing how divided we are. How we can't agree on anything. Well, we all got together – Democrats, Republicans and Independents – and actually found something we agree on.

We think you should actually have to earn your paycheck. Just like the rest of us.

The Constitution says Congress has one job above all:

Deciding how much money the government takes in and how much it spends.

To do this responsibly, you need a budget. But you haven't passed a budget in three years. Your annual spending bills have been late for 14 straight years.

You're not doing your job.

If we don't do our jobs, we don't get paid. The same should go for you.

NO BUDGET, NO PAY

It's a common sense idea and we know some of you already support it, because bills have been introduced in both the Senate and the House (S. 1981 and HR. 3643).

In March, the Senate Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs Committee is debating the No Budget, No Pay Bill. We are asking for your support.

We are asking you to restore some confidence in our government.

We are asking you to be responsible and accountable.

We are asking you to do your job.

No more excuses. Please.

Sincerely,

America

No Budget, No Pay is one of a dozen proposals in No Labels' Make Congress Work! action plan, which aims to end the gridlock and hyper-partisanship in Congress that are making it virtually impossible to solve America's national challenges.
